

Arch. NAZILA KHAGHANI

Architect Nazila Khaghani, PhD researcher in Architectural and Urban Design in the Department of Architecture of the Florence University (department of Architecture DIDA).

She achieved Phd degree from university of Florence in 2016 with a dissertation about UNESCO historical buildings heritage entitled " Patrimonio minerario e patrimonio Unesco, Analisi dei siti minerari già iscritti nella World Heritage list e ipotesi di candidatura delle miniere dell'Amiata".

She achieved a Master's degree in Architecture in six years focusing in Architectural design and urban planning with a dissertation on the industrial site, entitled " Conservation, rehabilitation and redesign of the industrial site of Persian Gulf". She had developed the problems and also she had redesign and retrain for residential and touristic purposes through analysis and study of the projects and realizations of Such masters of Modern Architecture like Aldo Van Eyck, Georges Candilis, Vladimir Bodiansky, Shadrach Woods, Mansilla & Tunon , Herman Hertzberger, etc...Indeed, she successfully represented the projects with the most updated architectural drawing softwares for which the candidate has a great capacity and creativity.

She also achieved a second level Master's degree in "bioclimatic architecture and technological innovation" .

Thanks to her excellent knowledge of English, Italian, French, Turkish, persian she has working on researches and also many catalogue of conferences. Currently she is research and teaching assistant. She also founded Cicop Iran (CICOP Italia – Centro Internazionale per la Conservazione del Patrimonio Architettonico)